

Appendix A: Accessibility Features and Accommodations for Students Taking the Paper-and-Pencil PARCC Assessments

Students who may participate in a Paper and Pencil PARCC Assessment

Although PARCC assessments are computer- delivered using an online testing system, there may be specific instances which require a student to take a paper-and-pencil assessment instead. The following conditions may result in a school choosing to administer a paper-and-pencil assessment:

- Condition #1: A student is unable to use a computer due to the impact of his or her disability.
 - Examples may include:
 - A student with a disability who cannot participate in the online assessment due to a health-related disability, neurological disorder, or other complex disability, and/or cannot meet the demands of a computer-based test administration;
 - A student with an emotional, behavioral, or other disability who is unable to maintain sufficient concentration to participate in a computer-based test administration, even with test accommodations;
 - The assistive technology required by the student is not compatible with the testing platform.
- Condition #2: A student who recently entered the school and has had very little or no prior experience or familiarity with technology.
- Condition #3: The school has previously documented that it does not meet the technology requirements to provide the online assessment. The school must have the technology readiness survey on file.

Refer to the PARCC Accessibility Features and Accommodations Manual for information concerning test administration considerations, accessibility features and accommodations.
